Papers relating to The Established Church
IN IRELAND.

From Earl SPENCER to The LORD LIEUTENANT of IRELAND; on the State of The ESTABLISHED CHURCH.

MY LORD,

Whitehall,
18th June 1806.

AMONG all the important Subjects which are involved in the Government of that part of the United Kingdom over which your Grace is appointed by His Majesty to preside, there is none on which His Majesty's paternal care for the welfare of His Subjects leads Him to look with more anxiety than the present State of the Established Church of Ireland, and the obvious necessity of adopting, without delay, any proper measure for its support, and for remedying those evils under which it at present unfortunately labours.

In having recourse to your Grace on this occasion, I have the greatest satisfaction in knowing that your habits, opinions, and disposition, are such as to inspire the fullest confidence of your cordial concurrence in promoting these important objects; and I flatter myself that the mode of proceeding which, upon the most mature consideration, it has been thought advisable to pursue, will ensure to us the zealous co-operation of the very respectable Prelates who are now placed at the head of the Church of Ireland, at the same time that it affords the most unobjectionable as well as effectual means of procuring the information required.

With these views I have His Majesty's commands to direct your Grace to write to the Lord Primate, and the three other Archbishops of Ireland, desiring that they will, with as little delay as possible, procure in their respective Provinces, and transmit to your Grace, for His Majesty's information, the most accurate accounts that can be furnished of the actual situation of the Established Church of Ireland, more especially on the following important Points:—

The present State of Residence of the Clergy in each Diocese respectively, and the means which exist of enforcing it: the obstacles which may be in the way of it, by the want of Churches, of Glebe Houses, or otherwise; and the best mode of applying such Funds as now are applicable, or may hereafter be granted by Parliament for these Purposes:

The number of Livings, in each Diocese, of a value too small to afford to resident Incumbents the means of comfortable subsistence :

The allowance now given to Curates in cases of allowed Non-residence of the Incumbent, and the number of Curates who may be resident or non-resident upon their Cures :

The state of the Unions of Parishes; the number and extent of each Union; the Authority by which they were made; and the propriety of their being respectively continued or dissolved.—The Regulations which it may be proper to establish by Law or otherwise on this subject, both to prevent any Union being henceforth improperly made, and to preserve the Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidation, where there are more than one in the United Parishes;—and, generally, all such other matters of information as may suggest themselves to your Grace, or as may occur to the Archbishops themselves, as likely to be useful towards enabling His Majesty to give effect to His benevolent and paternal intentions for the protection and support of the Established Church of that part of the United Kingdom.

I am, &c.

(Signed) SPENCER.

His Grace the Lord Lieutenant,

&c. &c. &c.

—N^o 1.—

C I R C U L A R,

From his Grace The Lord Lieutenant to The PRIMATE and ARCHBISHOPS of IRELAND.

My Lord,

Phoenix Park, July 16th, 1806.

I HAVE the honour to transmit to your Grace, a copy of a Letter which I have received from Lord Spencer, intimating His Majesty's commands that I should communicate with your Grace, and the other distinguished Prelates now at the head of the Church of Ireland, upon the very important matters detailed in his Lordship's Letter, requesting that you will transmit to me with as little delay as possible, for His Majesty's information, the most accurate accounts that can be furnished of the actual situation of the Established Church of this part of His United Kingdom.

I entertain the fullest reliance on your Grace's earnest assistance and zealous co-operation in forwarding the King's most gracious intentions: and I do assure your Grace, that it will afford me the most heartfelt satisfaction to be the instrument of promoting His Majesty's benevolent views towards the protection and support of the Church, and of giving effect to his paternal solicitude for the welfare of His People, on a subject in which the vital interests and essential happiness of the Empire are so immediately concerned.

I have subjoined a List of Queries which appear to me to be proper to be submitted to the several Bishops within your Grace's province, in order that the information we seek to obtain by this enquiry may be uniformly directed to the same points.

I have the honour to be,

With very sincere respect, &c. &c. &c.

(Signed) BEDFORD.

To his Grace the Primate of all Ireland, and the three Archbishops of Dublin, Tuam, and Cashell.

—N^o 2.—

N. B. THE Churches in the Diocese of DERRY, are, in general, of great antiquity, some built long before the settlement of Ulster, and several at that time, they are of course falling into decay, notwithstanding the active exertions of a most respectable body of Clergy. The Diocese of Derry consists of forty-nine Benefices, two of which are Unions. On these Benefices, forty-one Incumbents actually reside, of the seven

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Concerning ANSWERS to such QUERIES as relate to Matters of Opinion; all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query.—BY what mode may the condition of such Livings, as are of a value too small to afford to resident Incumbents the means of comfort, be improved?

Answer.—The Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings by purchasing Glebes, and impropriate Tythes out of the produce of the First Fruits and Twentieth Parts, granted by Queen Anne for that purpose, and by adding the Incumbents with money for the erection of Glebe Houses: but this Fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such Livings.—There is also another Fund, arising from a charitable Bequest of the late Doctor Butler, Primate of all Ireland, and voted in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament; out of which Fund, the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment such Livings, under a hundred pounds a year, by adding to such salary yearly as will make the amount to the Incumbents of such Livings, one hundred pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings, but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

Query.—WHAT are the powers which now exist of enforcing Residence, or which it may be necessary to recommend to the Legislature to provide for that purpose?

Answer.—I apprehend that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to rectify the evil of non-residence; but at present, the execution of the Canon Law in cases of non-residence, has been obstructed by appeals; and there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, will, it is to be hoped, establish such a precedent in the case of non-residence, as will supercede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any provision for the purpose of enforcing residence in Ireland; but, if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may then become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing Residence.

Query.—WHAT is the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, or hereafter may become so, to the purpose of building or repairing of Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes or otherwise?

Answer.—I apprehend, that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building Glebe Houses; provided the promise of the late Administration should be fulfilled, of advancing all sums necessary for the very desirable purpose of forming residences for the Established Clergy of Ireland; and it appears to me that the same measure, if adopted, for the repairing, enlarging, and rebuilding of Churches, would tend materially to the improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church. For this purpose, Vestries should be empowered to lay on large sums payable in Gales. The above-mentioned scheme was proposed to Lord Hardwicke, when Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and was warmly approved of by his Lordship, and had the promise of his support; and had also the concurrence of Lord Redefdale, then Chancellor, and of Mr. Wickham, Lord Hardwicke's first Secretary.

If it should not be deemed advisable to advance money for the above purpose, an Act giving the power to Vestries would, in many instances, answer the end proposed.

Query.—WHAT Regulations appear to be proper to be established by Law or otherwise, to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being benefices improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidation, when there are more than one in the United Parishes?

Answer.—The Law now in being, if duly executed, would, I apprehend, be fully sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, being improperly made, and to preserve the Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidations. It might however be desirable, that Commissions of Dilapidations should, by Law, accompany the order for induction.

Query.—WHAT can be suggested, in addition to the foregoing, for the improvement, protection, and support of the Church of Ireland?

Answer.—I am of opinion, that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the alterations which have been suggested, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church of Ireland.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing, ANSWERS to such QUERIES as relate to Matters of Opinion; all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query.—WHAT Livings are in the different Dioceses, of a value too small to afford to resident Incumbents the means of Comfort, and by what mode may the condition of each be most improved?

Answer.—Every Living in this Diocese exceeds the value of One Hundred pounds per ann.; and the three smallest of them have been endowed with Episcopal grants of Glebes of forty acres, with one exception—the parish of Letter M'ward, part of the corps of the Dessery, which has no Glebe.

Query.—WHAT is the best mode of remedying the evil in each particular case of Non-residence?

Answer.—The evils of Non-residence in this Diocese are confined to those only who have other Benefices, which they hold by Faculty; except the single instance of the Vicar of Donagall, who is permitted to live in his father's house, which is convenient to the parish. As long, therefore, as Faculties are permitted, it does not appear that there are any cases in this Diocese which require particular remedy.

Query.—WHAT are the Powers which now exist of enforcing Residence, or which it may be necessary to recommend to the Legislature to provide for that purpose?

Answer.—It is understood that the Bishop may deprive for Non-residence; but recent experience has shewn that the process is expensive, tedious, and uncertain. It should seem advisable, that the Legislature should provide some more summary way of enforcing Residence.

Query.—WHAT is the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, or hereafter may become so, to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes or otherwise?

Answer.—The mode which the Board of First Fruits has adopted, by lending out money to be repaid by instalments and so forth, seems likely to be attended with beneficial effects, and perhaps it would be advisable to adopt the same mode for building or repairing of Churches.

Query.—WHAT Regulations appear to be proper to be established by Law, or otherwise, to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being henceforth improperly made, and to prevent Churches and Glebe Houses from dissipation, when there are more than one in the United Parishes?

Query.—WHAT can be suggested, in addition to the foregoing, for the improvement, protection, and support of the Church in Ireland.

Answer.—I do not venture on giving an answer to these two Queries, and it might appear gross presumption to offer any opinion or advice of mine to those high Personages, who, under His Majesty's paternal and anxious care and direction, have it in particular charge to promote the welfare of the Church in Ireland, and to remedy their evils under which, at present, it unfortunately labours.

To Their piety and wisdom, therefore, in this great and good work, I respectfully submit such Facts only, respecting the Diocese of Raphoe, as might not otherwise have come to their knowledge.

Raphoe,
October 20th, 1826. }

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing ANSWERS to such QUERIES as relate to Matters of Opinion; all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query.—BY what mode may the condition of such Livings, as are of a value too small to afford to resident Incumbents the means of comfort be improved?

Answer.—The Board of First Fruits can assign such Livings, by purchasing Glebes and impropriate Tythes out of the produce of the First Fruits and Tithes granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by assisting the Incumbents of them with money for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this Fund is small, and unequal to the efficient augmentation of such Livings. There is another Fund, arising from a charitable bequest of Doctor Butler, Primate of all Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament; out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under the value of One hundred Pounds a year, by adding to each salary, yearly, to the Incumbents of such Livings, as will make their annual Incomes One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort, in cases where the Funds, already mentioned, are insufficient.

Query.—WHAT are the powers, which now exist, of enforcing Residence, or which it may be necessary to recommend to the Legislature to provide for that purpose?

Answer.—It was apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, was sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present, the execution of the Canon Law, in cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by Appeals, and is attended with a very heavy expense and great delay; but a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, I hope will establish such a precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland; but, if the decision should be otherwise, it may then become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

Query.—WHAT is the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, or hereafter may become so, to the purpose of building or repairing of Churches, or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes, or otherwise?

Answer.—I apprehend that the Laws now in being establish a good mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes; but I apprehend, if the Parishes had a power at a Voboy of laying on an Assessment for a certain number of years, and borrowing money on that Assessment, to be repaid by instalments, it would tend much to expedite the Repairs or building of Churches.

Query.—WHAT Regulations appear to be proper to be established by Law, or otherwise, to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being hereafter improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dissipation, when there are more than one in the United Parishes?

Answer.—The Laws now in being I apprehend fully sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to prevent Churches and Glebe Houses from dissipation, when duly enforced.

Query.—WHAT can be suggested, in addition to the foregoing, for the improvement, protection, and support of the Church of Ireland?

Answer.—I am of opinion that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alteration which I have taken the liberty to suggest (if found necessary on the necessity already mentioned) and such Grants as His Majesty and Parliament may in their bounty make, for augmenting the Incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

United by Act of Council; the date cannot be ascertained; but in Act of Parliament 9th Queen Anne, power was given to remove the free of the church from Drakestown, which is stated in the Act to have been made the parish church, by the original Act of Union, to Kilpatrick.

15.	1.	Anlagh - - - - Personal care of.	Rev ^d Wm. Woods; resident; has care of souls, and discharges the duties.	—
16.	3.	Strickallen - - - - Rectory, Greenstown - - - - Rectory, Dunface - - - - Rectory, Conguonagh. In Strickallen are - 122 acres. In Greenstown - 1,441 — In Dunface - 600 —	Rev ^d Geo. Hardman; resident; has care of souls, and discharges the duties.	These 3 Parishes were united by Act of Council 215 May 1667. But the parsonage not having been fixed, a new Act was obtained 16th Dec. 1800.
17.	1.	Rathkenny - - - - Vicarage.	Rev ^d Robt. Henry; not resident, but lives sufficiently near to discharge the duties. The necessity of non-residence would be to build a Glebe House; but there is only 1 acre of glebe, and 2 years income would be insufficient to build a house with offices.	—
18.	1.	Dromedra - - - - Rectory.	Hon. and Rev ^d Hays Coffey; non-resident with permission; lives in his own house in the parish of Kells; has care of souls. Duties discharged frequently by the Incumbent, and constantly by a Curate.	—
19.	1.	Insilinst - - - - Vicarage.	Rev ^d Val. Duke; not resident, on account of his infirmities, and because there is neither church nor glebe; has care of souls. Duties discharged by the Curate of Dromedra. There seems to be no remedy to the evil of non-residence in this Curacy. N. B. The 1 st collection of it was to the Curate of Dromedra.	—
20.	1.	St. Mary's, Drogheda Vicarage.	Rev ^d Chas. Crawford; resident in Drogheda; has care of souls, and discharges the duties. N. B. That part of Drogheda, in which the Incumbent resides, is not in this parish.	—
21.	4.	Duleek - - - - Vicarage. Droghda - - - - Vicarage. Closavey - - - - Vicarage. Surrellin - - - - Vicarage.	Rev ^d Wm. Skir. Hamilton; resident; has care of souls, and discharges the duties.	Episcopally united. Immediately connected with each other, in three districts, are 10 parishes.
		Duleek, Closavey, and Surrellin are contiguous. Droghda is separated from Duleek by the River Boyne. In Duleek are - 10,816 acres. Closavey - 1,661 — Surrellin - 2,600 — Droghda - 800 —	all inappropriate in the Marquis of Drogheda, and of which he is the Patron. A new distribution of them, with a view to form them into permanent Unions, would be highly expedient. As Episcopally united, they now interfere each other, and to procure residence is impracticable, as long as they continue Episcopally united or divided, two years income of each separate parish being insufficient to build a Glebe House; but the Patron's consent, as the Law now stands, is an essential preliminary.

A Church, old, but in good repair.	No Glebe House; about 4 acres of glebe adjoining to the church-yard.
A Church, with the exception of the chancel, in complete repair.	A Glebe House, on a glebe of 24.02.26 r. close to the church. There is another glebe of 7 A. 2 R. 02. within less than a mile of the church.	A Curate resident. Salary £. 75. per ann.

A new Church build- ing, and nearly finished.	No Glebe or House.

In Scramallin 3, about 3 miles; and in Dowth 20, about the same distance from the church. N. B. Two years' income of any one denomi- nation would not be sufficient to build a house and offices.	Lord Droghda formerly paid £. 7. per ann. for the cure of Duleek, but this he now withholds.	Income of Duleek, £. 3 p. ann. Connolly 60 Scramallin 40 Dowth 27 Total £. 130.

In Kilharvan - - 1,191 —	}	Rev ^d John Lever; not resident, with permission, on account of his infirmities, and of his having no church in the Union; has cure of souls. Duties discharged by a neighbouring Clergyman. N. B. As soon as the Church is built, measures must be taken to build a Glebe House, and ensure residence.	Episcopally united in 1793. It would be expedient to make this a permanent Union, if the consent of the Proprietor and Patron could be procured.
23.	4.	Julianstown - - - - - Vicarage. Moore Church - - - - - Vicarage. Ardeath - - - - - Vicarage. Tymole - - - - - Vicarage. Julianstown and Moore Church are contiguous. Episcopally united 18th June 1792. Another distribution of these parishes would, evidently, be expedient; but the same difficulty occurs as in N ^o 20, and for the same reasons.
24.	1.	Ballygarth - - - - - Rectory.		Rev ^d John Borden; not resident; lives on his other benefice in this Diocese; has cure of souls. Duties discharged by a neighbouring Clergyman. N. B. The only remedy against non-residence in this parish would be, to unite it perpetually with some of the neighbouring appropriate parishes.	—

26.	3.	Kristown - - - - - Rectory.		Rev ^d John Tolers; not resident, not being able to procure a house in the parish; has cure of souls, and lives sufficiently near to discharge the duties. N. B. The remedy of the evil of non-residence would be to build a Glebe House.	A Union by Act of Council, 5th July 1751.

In Tymole, 1 A. 1 R. 367. close to the old church, and 5 miles from Julianstown; half a mile farther from both, 4 A. 1 R. 297. N. B. Two years income of any of the denominations would be insufficient to build a house and offices.
No Church.	No Glebe House, or glebe.	Curate's Salary £.20. per ann.	Ballygarth. The value of this Living being but £.70. per ann.
A Church, in Painstown, in complete repair.	A Glebe House, with necessary offices, now building. In Painstown about 1 and ½ acre of glebe close to the church, and at a very small distance 20 acres. In Ardmalchan 2 acres adjoining the ruins of the old church, and within 2 miles of Painstown.

In Dunilowen 1 and ½ acre about ½ mile from the church; and in Ballynagarvey 4 and ½ acres about 1 mile from the church. N. B. W. Upson; resident. Has care of souls, and discharges the duties.	Episcopally united. Nov. 1863, and have been so united since immemorial on every vacancy, although a final unpropitious parish intervention. The three denominations would form a very expedient Union, by Act of Council.

In Balfour - - - 664 - In Killagh - - - 797 - In Clonsarey - - 1,063 - N. B. The parishes of Dyfert and Cullowstown Deltra, lie between the two last parishes.	Rev^d Mark Watkinson; not resident; is Inspector and Chaplain to the gend. of Trim, where he resides; has care of souls, duties discharged by the neighbouring Clergymen. N. B. To remedy the evil of non-residence here, the parishes ought to be dissolved, to form a parsonal union with other neighbouring parishes.	An Episcopal Union in 1758.—It is obvious, that another distribution of these parishes would be expedient; they are of small income, and therefore other parishes also of small income contiguous to them, with which they might be perpetually united, if the Patron would give their consent.
30.	a.	Kilmellan - - - - - Vicarage. Maccown - - - - - Vicarage.	Rev^d D. C. Ingham; resident. Has care of souls, and discharges the duties.	These parishes were united Episcopally in 1804, although not contiguous, on account of the smallness of incomes, Kilmellan being but £100 per ann. and Maccown £12.

A church in Kilmore, Ed. and in bad repair, no money has been raised to put it in complete order, and with part of which the church has been sold and painted.	A Glebe House, on a glebe of 36 acres, ad- joining the church of Kilmore. In Parsonstown are about 7 acres, about 1 mile distant from the glebe of Kilmore.
A church in Skryne, in bad repair; the fix is inconvenient, and the Parishioners are preparing a fund to build one in a more central situa- tion.	No Glebe House; a glebe in Skryne of 22 acres, in different parcels; 1 containing 14 acres; another 3; another 3 s. 2 a. 6 p. and another 1 a. 3 s. 0 p. all within a quarter of a mile of the church.—N.B. A process is now carrying on against the incumbent, with a view to deprivation. The remedy of the evil of non-residence would be to build a Glebe House, and to carry the features of deprivation against the present non-resident incumbent, into execution.	The 4 first of these districts were united by Act of Council, 28th March 1680. Knockmark Episcopally united to the above, 1781.

Duties discharged by a Curate. To guard against the evil of non-residence, the only expedient would be to procure a glebe.	These 5 Parishes have always gone together, and been presented to as to one Benefice; but it does not appear by what authority. It is a very proper Union.

The Diocese of MEATH consists of ninety-two Benefices, forty of which are Unions; on these Benefices forty-five Incumbents actually reside. Of the forty-seven who do not reside, ten have no Glebe Houses, but live sedulously near to their respective Benefices to discharge their duties without inconvenience; nineteen have other Livings on which they reside, and hold by Faculty; thirteen are absent with permission; two without permission; two Benefices are vacant, and one is a future. There are ninety Churches, thirty-seven Glebe Houses, seventy-five

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing ANSWERS to such QUERIES as relate to Matters of Opinion; all the other Queries being answered in the Column.

Query.—WHAT are the powers which now exist of enforcing Residence, or which it may be necessary to recommend to the Legislature to provide for that purpose.

Answer.—The powers vested in the Archbishops and Bishops by the Canon Law, as they have been uniformly exercised in Ireland to the present period, appear to be sufficient to enforce Residence, if not checked in their accustomed operation. But there are at present instances in this Diocese of great discouragement to residence, and opposition to this essential point of discipline, taken from some late decisions of the Court of Delegates, to which there has been an appeal.

from the sentence of the Confessional Court. It is laid down in the books of the most admitted Authority, that their Delegates or Commissioners are, "usually some of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and commonly one or more of the twelve Judges, and one or more Doctors of the Common Law;" and the nature of the case seems necessarily to require that they should be persons conversant in the Canon, and Constitutions Ecclesiastical, in the Civil Law, and the established usages and rules of the Ecclesiastical Courts. In the Courts of Delegates, who made the decisions alluded to, there was generally a Spiritual Lord, and a Doctor of Civil Law.

Query.—WHAT is the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, or hereafter may become so, to the purpose of building or repairing of Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes, or otherwise?

Answer.—The Regulations directed by the Board of First Fruits, under the provisions of the Statute in the several cases, for applying the funds applicable to the purposes of building Glebe Houses, and of acquiring and improving Glebes, have been found, in general, to be effectual to these purposes; and the chief thing that appears to be requisite is, that these funds should be made adequate to the exigencies of the Church in Ireland. But, where the Incumbents pay no regard to an application to build, something seems to be wanting to the powers vested in the Archbishop and Bishops, for applying a remedy.

In all such cases, after two years' possession, if the Benefice be of the yearly value of £ 150. per annum, or of three years' possession if of £ 200. the Bishop is empowered, with the consent of the Lord Lieutenant, to sequester a fourth part of the profits of the Benefice, till a sum not exceeding a year and a half's income be received, which the Archbishop or Bishop shall cause to be laid out in building, improving, &c.

Besides the length of time it must take, including the expenses of the sequestration, to collect this fund, and its inadequacy, when collected, to build a Residence suitable to the Benefice, and to make necessary improvements, instances have occurred in this Diocese, in which the Incumbents have expressed a determination to force the Bishop to have recourse to this remedy, as exonerating themselves in all trouble and all the niggle of building, and throwing all the labour and responsibility on him; a consideration they think well worth the temporary deduction from their income. If the powers were to be extended to the sequestering a greater proportion of the profits, and to two years' income, this remedy would be more efficacious.

Somewhat also seems to be wanting to the powers on which the Board has formed its Regulations for building and rebuilding Churches. By a Statute now in force, the Trustees are restricted from granting any money for building or rebuilding Churches, except where no public service has been performed for twenty years and upwards. In this Diocese are Churches threatening ruin, for the rebuilding or thoroughly repairing of which no adequate fund can be expected to be raised by a parochial rate, from the small extent of the parishes, or by contributions, from the poverty of the Parishioners. In all such cases, might it not be expedient that the Incumbent and Churchwardens, with the sanction of the Archbishop or Bishop, should state to the Trust what proposition the parish could afford to contribute, at a moderate rate, towards the rebuilding or effectually repairing the Church, and that the Trustees should be empowered to give whatever sum might be further requisite, within the extent of what they usually grant?

Further.—There are instances in which it would be highly expedient to change the site of the Church from where the rules of the old Church are to be found, to a more convenient situation, and in which the wishes of the Parishes and Parishioners coincide with those of the Incumbent and the Ordinary. But the consent of the Patron and of the Proper owners of land within the parish being a legal requisite, and then, either being absent from the Kingdom, or opposing the wishes of the majority of the resident Parishioners, no Act of Council can be applied for to change the site. Might not the clause requiring the consent of the Proprietors of land be restricted to resident Proprietors? And might it not be sufficient to serve notice on the Patron, that an application for changing the site of the Church is intended to be made to the Lord Lieutenant and Council, and of the day on which it is to be taken into consideration, that he may have an opportunity of stating his objections, if any he has; the Lord Lieutenant and Council to judge of their validity.

Another point well is felt in this Diocese from a similar position, as the Law now stands, relative to the real legacies of parishes. The present consent of the Patron and Incumbent is an essential requisite towards applying for an Act of Council in either case. In this Diocese are upwards of 45 parishes in the hands of Impropriators and Lay Patrons, exclusive of the Lords that are in the gift of the King, either with very small Vicarages endowed, or without any stipend whatever allowed for cure of souls. An arrangement of these parishes, so as to form them into perpetual Unions, for the purpose of procuring residence, supporting the churches, and the advancement of Religion and morals, is absolutely essential. But the necessity of procuring the previous consent of the Impropriators and Patron stands in the way of the Bishop, in himself, and if they refuse this consent he has no remedy. Might it not be sufficient, in all such cases, that on the application of the Archbishop or Bishop to the Lord Lieutenant and Council, for an Act either to unite or dissolve parishes, notice should be served, as in the former case, on the Impropriators, Patron, and Incumbents, of the application, and of the day on which it should be taken into consideration, that they might submit their objections, if any they should have, to the Lord Lieutenant and Council.

Query.—WHAT Regulations appear to be proper to be established by Law or otherwise, to prevent Unions, perpetual or temporary, from being hereafter improperly made, &c.?

Answer.—The Laws, as they now stand, have made such Regulations relative to perpetual Unions, as seem to preclude every danger of having any made improperly. Should there be any apprehension of abuse from Episcopal Unions, might it not suffice, to guard against it, if no such Union should be made without a reference to the Lord Primate, as in cases of Faculties, during the recesses for making the Union, obtaining his consent, and registering the Union in his Court?

Query.—WHAT can be suggested, in addition to the foregoing, for the improvement, protection, and support of the Church in Ireland?

Answer.—Enabling Archbishops and Bishops to maintain strict discipline, and to exercise the powers vested in them by the Crown, Confirmation, and Orders of the United Church, for enforcing Residence, and for the faithful discharge of all the Clerical duties;—authorizing, by the consent of the King in Parliament, the Parishioners to the management of the Board of Public Funds, for purchasing and improving Glebes, for building Glebe Houses, for building and repairing Churches, for augmenting small Livings, and making such additional Regulations as may be found necessary, to enable the Trustees to apply their funds with greater effect.—The co-operation and jurisdiction of the ranking Father and Head of the Church, and the support of Parliament extended to her, as in all past times.—A declaratory Law, if necessary, to establish the final, entire, acquiescent Union, Incorporation, and Identification of the Churches of England and Ireland, such as has been so repeatedly agreed upon and signified.—As an essential fundamental part of the Union¹¹, between the two Kingdoms, by the fifth Article of the Act of Union, declaring that thenceforth "The Church of Ireland should be united with that of England, into one Protestant Episcopal Church, the doctrine, worship, discipline, and government of which our Church, shall be and shall remain in full force for ever, the doctrine, worship, discipline and government," that were at the time, "by Law established for the Church of England," that is, as they are to be found in the Articles of Faith agreed upon in the year 1534, in the Articles of Faith of that Church; and signing forth "her doctrine and worship," and in the Canons and Constitutions ecclesiastical agreed upon in 1539, and setting forth "her discipline and government." Thus, it is apprehended, are among the means that, with the Divine assistance, promise to be the most efficacious for "the improvement, protection, and support of the Church in Ireland."¹²

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing ANSWERS to such QUERIES as relate to Matters of Opinion; all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query.—WHAT is the best Mode of remedying the Evil in each particular case of Non-residence?

Answer.—The best Remedy for Non-residence would, in the Bishop of Dromore's opinion, be afforded by Doctor Daigraze's Bill, offered to the House of Commons in the last Session.

Query.—WHAT are the Powers which now exist of enforcing Residence, or which it may be necessary to recommend to the Legislature to provide for that purpose?

Answer.—The most material part of this Query will be found answered under the Number last mentioned.

Query.—WHAT is the best Mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, or hereafter may become so, to the purpose of building or repairing of Churches or Glebe Houses, or the Improvement of Glebes, or otherwise?

Answer.—It is apprehended that the Laws now in force, if duly executed, establish a sufficient Mode for applying the Funds now or hereafter to be appropriated, to answer the ends mentioned in this Query.

Query.—WHAT Regulations appear to be proper to be established by Law or otherwise, to prevent Unions, Perpetual or Episcopal, from being henceforth improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from Dilapidation, when there are more than one in the united Parishes?

Answer.—So few of the Abuses here complained of exist in the Diocese of Dromore, the Bishop begs leave to refer to the experience of other Prelates where they occur, for the best Means of their Removal.

And to the same, the Bishop of Dromore also respectfully submits the Answer to the last Query, N^o 2.

THO^s Dromore.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Continuing ANSWERS to QUERIES the 1st, Section 6th; Queries the 3d, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th; all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 1st, Section 6th.—THERE is by Act of Parliament a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or divide Parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishop and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a District (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Perpetual Curacy, by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been actually divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Query 3d.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings, by purchasing Glebes and Impropriate Tythes out of the Prebend of the First Fruits and twelfth parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by affording the Incumbents of them with Money, for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentations of such Livings. There is also another Fund, arising from a charitable bequest of the late Dr. Bealter, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under One hundred Pounds by the year, by adding so much Salary yearly to the Incumbents of such Livings as will make their annual incomes One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort, in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

N° V.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present, the execution of the Canon Law in cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by Appeals; and there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland; but, if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may then become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

N° VI.—WE apprehend, that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes.

N° VII.—THE Laws now in being are, we apprehend, sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidation, when duly enforced.

N° VIII.—WE are of opinion that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alteration which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Reformed Church in Ireland.

1.	—	THE Bishop of KILDARE has no Residence in his Diocese. There is extant in the Registry a map of lands, belonging to the Bishoprick, in which seven fields, viz. N ^o 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, are marked "Meeshal Lands," and contain 67 acres and 1 rood; but, by a modern admeasurement, the same fields have been found to contain, of plantation measure, 72 acres 3 roods. In the above mentioned old map, a field, adjoining the Cathedral Precincts, or Church-yard, is distinguished by being entitled "The Palace," and it is there stated to contain 3 acres and 1 rood; but, by the modern admeasurement, it is no more than three acres. These lands were formerly and still are inclosed by roads, and there have been no traces known of the Palace in the memory of the oldest inhabitant of the Town. The Bishop of the Diocese has not the power, by virtue of any existing Law, to charge upon his successors any sum adequate to the building of a Palace, by reason of the tenure of the Bishoprick.

There is a Glebe House in Rofemlin, with as much and eighty acres of glebe adjoining to it. There is another glebe in the same parish, of 45 acres, about one mile from the church. In Rery- more, there is a glebe of about fifty acres, includ- ing mountain. In the parish of Kilmacanogue, one hundred acres of arable, meadow, and pasture, with about two hundred acres of mountain, dis- tant from Rofemlin about five miles.	£. 75. per ann. to the Rev. John Baldwin. The endow- ment of the Chapel is not yet settled.	Kilmacanogue Cha- pel, when endowed and completed.
A Church in the pa- rish of Lea, recently founded, and in bad repair.	No Glebe House. There are twenty-five acres and a half of glebe contiguous to the church.	£. 90. per ann. ; resident in the Parish.
The Chapel is almost in ruins, there being no fund wherewith to re- pair it.	No Glebe House nor land. The emoluments arising from this Chapelry consist in a rent-charge on the estate of Lord Galway in the King's County, and a pension of fifty Pounds per ann. subject to some deductions, granted by Govern- ment about the beginning of the last century, to the Chaplain and his successors, for performing Divine service in the French language.
A new Church in Coolnamagher.	A Glebe House and twenty-six acres of land near the church. There is a churchyard of about one-half of an acre, at the ruins of a church in the parish of Ballykeane.
The Chapel is almost in ruins, there being no fund wherewith to re- pair it.	No Glebe House nor land. The emoluments of the Chaplain arise from a rent-charge on the estate of Lord Galway, in the King's County, of fifty Pounds per ann.

CHARLES SMITH.

Esq. J. C. Smith, D. Reg.

PARTICULAR OBSERVATIONS.

N. B. The Numbers refer to the Benefices.

- N^o 6. The Bishop should be dispossessed of these Tythes: his enjoyment of them deprives the Incumbents of the respective Parishes in which they are situated, of the very means of residence. To effect this purpose some proper compensation may hereafter be suggested.
7. It were much to be wished that this union of Parishes might be differently arranged. The Parish of Kildock has contiguous with Clonserry, which on its further extremity is contiguous to Ballykeellege or Harland, which in like manner touches Ballynecagh, the last of which Parishes is at least ten miles from Kildock. Vide N^o 14. Firrassoe.
13. Bodestown and Sherlockstown ought to be united, because they are contiguous. Bodestown has the site and part of the walls of an old church remaining; there are in it eight acres of glebe; and the Parish, according to the Incumbent's statement, contains between 1,500 and 1,700 acres. In Sherlockstown there are seven hundred acres having rectorial Tythes. The income might be augmented by the Board of First Fruits.
14. The union of Firrassoe with Ballymacwilliam is extremely improper; neither of them is well adapted for a separate Benefice, but Ballymacwilliam, with great benefit to the country, might be united to Ballybarry, by an adjustment of His Majesty's rights with Mr. Wakely's patronage, their Rectories being nearly equal in value. In a new arrangement of N^o 8, by the addition of Firrassoe, two Benefices might be formed with great advantage to the Diocese, and without injury to the King's patronage.
15. The Vicarage of Downings and the Parish of Killybegs should be united, and augmented by the Board of First Fruits. There are many persons very desirous of this arrangement, who would probably contribute largely to build a church. It would be extremely desirable that Caragh should be endowed with all its Great Tythes, or otherwise compensated for the loss of Downings.
17. A Church ought to be built here, and better means provided for the residence of the Rector. It might be united, by Act of Council, to Clonserry in Ophaly; and the Deanery of Kildare might have compensation by the addition of the Tythes of Tully, now belonging to the Bishop, which Parish might, with great propriety, be added to Kildare, in lieu of Clonserry, for which purpose the Cathedral should be made perpetual. The Bishop's income might be considered in some other way.
- N^o 18. It were desirable that a glebe and a house should be procured here, and a new Church built.
19. From this Benefice should be separated the Rectory of Sherlockstown. A Glebe and Glebe House are much wanting. Upon the loss of Sherlockstown it might have the addition of Ballymanry and Bolas, a Township wherein, as part of Tully, the Bishop has four Tythes; but it would still be necessary to refer to the Board of First Fruits for an augmentation to Great Council and Ladytown.
21. To this Rectory I would advise the perpetual union of Coghasstown; the Bishopric being in some other feet compensated. The Parishes are in immediate contact.
23. A Church, Glebe House and Land much wanted here. The Bishop's Tythes, as part of Tully, viz. Treadstown, Rathbride, and Redhills, might be added with great propriety to this Benefice, of which the three denominations should be perpetually united, with an adjustment of the rights of the Crown in Tully with the Duke of Leinster.
24. Lacka might be united with the Rectory and Vicarage of Donny. Kildangan and Waterstown should be united with Norsey. There is a Church at Kildangan, and a house and land should be procured for the Incumbent.
25. Should this Curacy be held separately, it ought to be considerably augmented. Monasteren is a town of very great importance, having a flourishing trade, and a considerable Protestant population, with a very handsome Church.
26. These Parishes should be united, a glebe and house procured, and the Church of either rebuilt.
27. Norsey should be united with Waterstown and Kildangan, where there is already a Church.
29. A glebe and house would be a very great acquisition in this perpetual Union, which was a very proper one.
30. This Parish is in immediate contact with Ballymacwilliam, where there is a glebe. The Church of Ballybarry would, in point of situation, serve for both, and it would be an easy matter here to adjust the interest of the Crown, and of Mr. Wakely, patron of Ballybarry.
31. The consolidation of the Rectory and Vicarage of Callroper, alias Monasterin, being the Town and Parish of Blanderry, would be a desirable object. Concerning the Vicarage of Kildalton, See N^o 33.

- N^o 35. Many attempts have been made to procure a glebe to build on for the Rector of this Parish, but unsuccessfully, hitherto without effect.
36. The consolidation of this Rectory with the Vicarage would be a desirable object (see N^o 31), provided a suitable quantity of glebe could be procured on which to build a house. A Church is much wanting in this part of the Diocese. The union of this Vicarage with that of Mosslesbrook, is by no means to the advantage of the Reformed Church, in point of fact, the Parishes are contiguous, but they approach each other at the extremes; and the Town of Edenderry, where the Vicar resides, is at least twelve miles distant from the parish Church of this Parish.
37. The Incumbent would gladly build a house here, but there is not sufficient income; and as it is distant from a market, a larger glebe would be necessary. The Incumbent is enabled to reside by having a small farm and cottage in this Parish.
38. This Parish, now called Philipstown, is the King's County Town; and the Benefice, extremely poor at present, ought if possible to be largely augmented.
39. A consolidation of this Rectory with the Vicarage is desirable. The Village of Ballykean is well situated for a Church, though the united Rectory and Vicarage would hardly afford subsistence in this place. It is at a considerable distance from any market, and a few more acres of glebe would, on that account chiefly, be a great acquisition.
40. The Parish of Clonchorke ought to be provided with a Church, a Minister, and a suitable residence. A very considerable part of the Town of Portlannington is in this Parish; and there are many Protestants who have no place of worship. The very Rev. Mr. Dean Digby is ready to concur in any measure that may be thought advisable, and there are persons of great consideration in the Parish who will probably assist either in erecting a perpetual Curacy, or in rebuilding the Church.
41. The Parish cannot well be considered without reference to the Town of Portlannington. At least two miles from Portlannington, there is a decayed old Church, which can scarcely be preserved by ordinary repairs from falling. It is inconveniently situated for the Town, and equally so for the numerous Protestant inhabitants of the country. By a plurality of voices, at a late meeting, it has therefore been determined to change its site, and to rebuild it still further from the Town, by which means Portlannington, containing about 1,500 inhabitants, will be in a worse state than it now is. In Portlannington there are two Chapels and two Schools, endowed by the Earl of Galway in 1702: one Chapel and School for Protestant French Refugees, and the other for the English Protestant Settlers and Native Irish, on his estate. A rent-charge of £40 per ann. was settled on each Chaplain, £20. per ann. on the English Schoolmaster, and £12. on the French master; and the Bishop of Kildare, the Diocesan, and his Successors, were appointed Trustees for ever. The Chapels and Schools, with their endowments, were accordingly conveyed to the Bishop for the time being, and shortly after, because there were many French Protestants in the place, a pension of £50. was granted to the French Chaplain for the time being, which is enjoyed to this day. When the Chapels were conveyed in trust to the Bishop, they were nearly built; repairs were little thought of; and the Fund provided for that purpose was only a fine of £20. to be paid on the demise of each of three lives, on the perpetual renewal of which the lands charged with the above rent of £122. are held for ever. At present there is one sum of £20. in hand, which bears interest; but as the two Chapels are absolutely in ruins, and must be shortly altogether abandoned for want of necessary repairs, the Bishop considers himself (so far as the buildings are concerned) incapable of fulfilling the purposes of this trust. The Rectory of this Parish is appropriate to the Dean and Chapter of Kildare. The Vicarage is endowed with one-third of the Tythes, and the Incumbent, as before-mentioned, is the Reverend Mr. Mansell. Part of the Town of Portlannington, situated in the King's County and Parish of Clonchorke, must also be considered on this occasion. The ancient site of Clonchorke Church is too remote from the Town, which contains a great number of boarding schools, kept by very respectable Persons, for children of both sexes; and serious inconveniences must arise to such seminaries of education, if the children be debased from the exercise of Public Worship.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing ANSWERS to QUERY the 1st, Section 6th; Queries 3d, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th; all other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 1st, Section 6th.—THERE is by Act of Parliament a sufficient power in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, to unite or dissolve Parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishop and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a District (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Perpetual Curacy, by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been actually divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Query 3d.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings by purchasing Glebes and impropriate Tythes, out of the produce of the First Fruits and twentieth parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by assisting the Incumbents of them with money for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this Fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such Livings. There is also another Fund, arising from a charitable bequest of the late Doctor Butler, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under One hundred Pounds by the year, by adding so much salary yearly to the Incumbents of such Livings as will make their annual incomes One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort, in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

N^o V.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as hitherto extended here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present the execution of the Canon Law, in cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by appeal: And there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland; but if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

N^o VI.—WE apprehend that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes.

N^o VII.—THE Laws now in being are, we apprehend, sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from Dissolutions, when duly enforced.

N^o VIII.—WE are of opinion, that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alterations which we have suggested, if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned, and such Grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in the Diocese of Kildare.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

Containing Answers to Query the 1st, Section 6th; Queries the 3d, 4th, 5th, 7th, and 8th;—all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 1st, Section 6th.—THERE is by Act of Parliament a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or divide Parishes, when either may be deemed advisable, and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a district (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Parochial Charge, by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been already divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Query 3d.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings by purchasing Glebes and impropriate Tythes, out of the produce of the First Fruits and twelfth parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by adding the Incumbents of those who money for the redemption of Glebe Houses, but this fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such Livings. There is also another Fund arising from charitable bequests of the late Dr. Beilston, President of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under One hundred Pounds by the year, by adding so much salary yearly to the Incumbents of such Livings as will make their annual incomes One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings, but their funds may be augmented by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the Resident Incumbents the means of comfort in cases where the funds already mentioned are insufficient.

Nº V.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as heretofore enacted here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence, but at present the execution of the Canon Law, in cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by Appeals. And there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, it is still to be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in cases of Non-residence, as will supercede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland, but if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may then become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some law for enforcing the residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

Nº VI.—WE apprehend that the laws already in being sufficient to the task made of applying such funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes.

Nº VII.—THE laws now in being are, we apprehend, sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidations, when duly enforced.

Nº VIII.—WE are of opinion the due execution of the now existing laws, with the small alterations which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church of Ireland.

OBSERVATIONS

ON GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing Answers to Query the 1st, Section 6th; Queries the 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th;—all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 1st, Section 6th.—I am of the first opinion.

Query 3d.—I am of the same opinion.

Nº V.—IF the result of the present Commission of Review should be in favour of Episcopal Authority, there yet will be wanting power sufficient to enforce Residence to effect, so long as there may be three appeals against the decrees of the Bishop's Court; viz. to the Metropolitan; to a Court of Delegates; to the King in Council. The protection and expense of such proceedings must greatly discourage the Bishop from embarking in the contest: to which may be added, the total neglect of a parish for years, on a trial of serious and extensive consequence. I must further observe, that, on a decree of deprivation, the laws do not allow the House to be sequestrated; and the Incumbent, who is indifferent both to duty and character, which will generally be the case when the matter comes to this extremity, is encouraged to litigate and protract proceedings, however certain he may be of defeat, as, in most cases, he will obtain more revenue than the suit will annually cost him.

Nº VI.—I am of the same opinion; but on this head must observe, that the laws at present respecting the enforcement of building Glebe Houses require amendment. By the 1st of Geo. II. c. 25, the shortest time in which a Bishop can by law enforce the building of a Glebe House, is ten years; the accomplishment of it will generally take twelve years. I never have heard of a single instance of this law being enforced through all its stages; the reason is manifest.

Nº VII.—I believe the laws in being, if duly enforced, are sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and for preserving our Churches from dilapidation, but I do not think that they are equally sufficient to preserve our Glebe Houses from the same. The Statute, which is our chief guide, 10th W. III. c. 6, though it might perhaps meet the end of the day, is not applicable to our present circumstances.—A dilapidation; if the benefices &c. do not repair, A has no remedy against C, unless he can prove in whole (incumbency the dilapidations were incurred; and the building becomes a ruin, or, or is repaired by A, wholly innocent of neglect. If this Act were repealed, and we were left to the Common Law as practised in England, which includes the lapse of time, as well as neglect of Incumbent, as arrivals of dilapidations (that is, it makes the Revenue of the Church at all times answerable for the support of its buildings), I know not that we should want any other regulation. In this country, the practice has frequently been to allow the lapse of time to operate against the successor only: even the anomaly of the full often craves expense on the successor, which properly ought to belong to the predecessor.

Nº VIII.—From what I have said above, I cannot accede to this in its full extent.

September 30th 1806.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Concerning ANSWERS to QUERIES the 1st, 3.rd Section 6th; Queries the 3^d, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th;—all the other Queries being answered in the C. James.

Query 1st, Section 6th.—THERE is by Act of Parliament a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or disunite Parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a district (part of a large parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Perpetual Curacy, by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been actually divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Query 3^d.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings, by purchasing Glebes and Impropritate Tythes out of the Produce of the First Fruits and twentieth parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by affixing the Incumbents of them with Money, for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such Livings. There is also another Fund, arising from a charitable bequest of the late Dr. Boulter, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under One hundred Pounds by the year, by adding so much Salary yearly to the Incumbents of such Livings as will make their annual Income One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort, in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

N^o V.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present, the execution of the Canon Law, in Cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by Appeals; and there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland; but, if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may then become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

N^o VI.—WE apprehend, that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes.

N^o VII.—The Laws now in being are, we apprehend, sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidation, when duly enforced.

N^o VIII.—WE are of opinion that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alteration which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the Income of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and affixing the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

The three former are all in the city of Waterford, and make about two-thirds of it. It is impossible to ascertain accurately the extent of any parishes within this Diocese, but from the best information I can get, I learn that Kilmacragh is about three quarters of a mile long, and about half a mile broad. Kilmacree is about a mile and half square. And Kilmacree is about three miles long and three quarters of a mile broad, and contains 1,223 acres. Kilmacree and Rellish: the Vicarages are endowed, and their estimated extent given with them. The Dean and Chapter of Waterford have the Tythes of Trinity Parish in common. Joseph Palmer; has no care of souls; does not reside, nor do I know where he does reside; he is Dean of Cashel; I know of no proper curia for his Non-Residence, unless he resides at the Deanery of Cashel, where he has care of souls; his reading and preaching times are performed in the Cathedral of Waterford by a substitute.	The corps of the Chanter'ship, and probably united at the same time when the Deanery was established.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

Containing ANSWERS to Query the 18. Sect. 6th; Queries 3d, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th;—all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 18. Sect. 6th

IN my opinion, the Entire Rectories of Croake, Kilcote, Kil St. Nicholas, and Parthling, ought to be perpetually united; and there was a Globe House built on this Rectory, it would be well managed.

The Entire Rectory of Corbally, and the Vicarages of Killes, Rathswythes, and Kilmacross, ought to be perpetually united, and a Church and a Globe House built at Killes. The Crown is the patron of Killes and Rathswythes, the Bishop, of Corbally and Kilmacross.

The Entire Rectories of Kil St. Lawrence and Killeore, and the Vicarages of Ballygarrett and Ballynakill, ought to be perpetually united. A Church and Globe House ought to be built at Ballygarrett.

Dumcanon Entire Rectory ought to be united perpetually to Kilmacross Vicarage.

The Vicarages of Kilmacross and Reilly, though there is a Parish intervening, I think ought to be perpetually united; Reilly Vicarage is of much too small value alone to afford comfort to the Incumbent, and cannot well be added to any contiguous Parish, they all being the corps of fones of the Chapter, or belonging to another Diocese; they are not above one mile distant from each other.

The Entire Rectories of Kilrossa and Killesterna I think ought to be perpetually united, though the Parish of Kilmacross intervenes, and divides them about three quarters of a mile; but Kilrossa is undeniably of too small value alone to afford comfort to the Incumbent, and cannot well be united to any contiguous Parish, they being all the corps of fones of the Chapter. The Globe at Killesterna ought to be exchanged for one near Killesterna Church, it being in a very inconvenient place for the residence of a Clergyman.

Kilcory Entire Rectory is inappropriate; it would be done of too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent, I should recommend (if possible) that it should be perpetually united to the Archdeaconry which joins it, and which I conceive is of too small value by itself to afford comfort to the Incumbent.

All the other Parishes in this Diocese are either the corps of the Deanery or fones of the Chapter, or the Archdeaconry, or the vicarage of the Cathedral.

If the foregoing alterations were to take place in this Diocese I think it would be very properly arranged, I have recommended perpetual Unions, in order to facilitate the building of suitable Globe Houses, and, should it be considered expedient at any future period, they may be dissolved by the same authority which makes them.

Query 3d.

I HAVE in the Columns answered this Query with regard to the Livings in this Diocese, as they now stand marked, but, should such Unions and distribution of Parishes take place as I have recommended, the following will be of too small value to afford to each Incumbent the means of comfort, and the best mode of expressing their condition. The value of Killes which I have recommended, would, I conceive, be of too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent, but may easily be improved by the purchase of additional Globe Land, and by the purchase of the Rectory of Tythes of Killes and Rathswythes.

The Union of Ballygarrett which I have recommended, would, I apprehend, be considerably of too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent, and can be improved alone by the purchase of Globe Lands—the Rectory Tythes of Ballygarrett and Ballynakill being part of the common estate of the Dean and Chapter.

Query 5th.

I HAVE, as yet, never experienced any difficulty in obtaining the Residence of the Clergy of this Diocese; I do not feel myself entirely competent to give an answer to that part of this Query, which refers to the powers which now exist of enforcing Residence; and I must beg leave to refer to my Municipalian, and to their Most Reverend and Right Reverend Prelates, whose experience and ability better qualify them to suggest what it may be necessary (if any thing should be so) to recommend to the Legislature to provide for that purpose.

Query 6th.

For an answer to this Query, I beg leave to refer to the funds much more competent Judges.

Query 7th.

If improper perpetual Unions are not sufficiently guarded against by the laws now in being (which make it necessary that every perpetual Union should be recommended by the Bishop of the Diocese, with the consent of the Incumbent and Archbishop of the Province, to the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, who are alone competent to grant it) I am at a loss to know what Regulations to recommend to be established to provide for that purpose. The Laws now in being, I conceive, are fully adequate to prevent Episcopal Unions being improperly made. Should it be necessary to establish any further Regulations than what the Laws at present provide, to preserve Churches and Globe Houses from Dissolution, when there are more than one in the United Parishes, I must refer in like manner as in Queries the 5th and 6th, for what is best to be recommended.

Query 8th.

WERE the Unions of Parishes well arranged, were there a Church, Globe Land, and a Globe House, upon every Rectory; and were the Clergy to reside in their Globe Houses, I do not think the Church of Ireland would stand in need of any further improvement or support. But these Queries having been put to all the Archbishops and Bishops upon the Bench, I submit with entire deference to their much better opinion and advice upon this last Query, as well as upon them all.

I have endeavored to convey the fullest information concerning the actual state of this Diocese; I fear, however, that very much of what I have written must require explanation, which could not easily be made on paper.

Number of Benefices.	No. of Benefices.	1.	2.	3.
		Names of BENEFICES and DENOMINATIONS; Number of PARISHES in each Benefice; Their Distances from each other; and Estimated Extent of each as to acreages.	INCUMBENTS, Whether having Cure of Souls; Where Resident, if non-Resident, what Clergy, and by whom the Duties are performed.	BENEFICES, Where United, and by what Authority.
1.	1.	Deanery of LISMORE. Tubrid Rectory. The Corps of the Deanery.	Rev ^d John Scott. It is alleged that the Dean of Lismore has not care of souls; but the charter of the Deanery, which is a Peculiar, as well as every thing relating to the Cathedral of Lismore, is lost; and no document whatsoever concerning this establishment is forthcoming. The Dean resides in the parish of Lismore, within half a mile of the Cathedral.	—
2.	1. 2.	Union of LISMORE. Lismore Vicarage. Macallop D ^r . These parishes are contiguous. The estimated extent of each I cannot find out; but I conceive them to be very large.	The five Vicars Choral of Lismore: they are alleged to have the cure of souls, and they do not dispute it; but, for the want of the charter, this, as well as many other things concerning the establishment of this Cathedral, cannot be ascertained. One of the Vicars Choral always resides in Lismore, and performs the duties.	United time out of mind; probably at the first establishment of the Cathedral.
3.	1. 2.	Union of LISMORE. Lismore Rectory. Macallop D ^r . These parishes are contiguous.	The monastery of the Cathedral of Lismore.	D ^r .
4.	1. 2. 3. 4.	Chanter of LISMORE. Ardmore Rectory. This Rectory is the Corps of the Chanter'ship. Ardmore Vicarage. Ballymacart D ^r . Ringsara D ^r . These parishes are contiguous. I cannot find out the extent of each; it must be very great; but they are in great part mountainous, uncultivated, and uninhabited.	Rev ^d Professor May Carew, has cure of souls; resides in the globe house at Ardmore, and performs the duties himself.	The three Vicarages were episcopally united in the year 1793; and were episcopally united to the Rectory in the year 1797.

6.	1. 2.	Treasurer of LISMORE. Newcastle Rectory. Fallowmeela Entire Rectory. The Corps at the Treasurership. These parishes are not contiguous, being divided from each other about 3 quarters of a mile, by a small parish called Mullagh; which is so frequently called a part of Fallowmeela parish as to be a parish itself. Newcastle parish contains about 1,600 acres. Fallowmeela parish contains about 1,000 acres.	Rev ^d Dr. Charles Tuckey; has cure of souls; resides on the borders of his Benefice at Swanton, which he holds with this by Faculty, and when he performs all in our duties. The duties performed by a Curate.	The Corps of the Treasurership, and probably united at the time of the establishment of the Cathedral of Lismore.

The two former parishes are contiguous, and are divided from Templemish at least five miles; Dysart and Kilmoluran is about a mile and a half in length, and about one mile in the greatest breadth; Ferson is about a mile and a half in length, and one mile in breadth; the extent of Templemish I cannot find out. Kilmoluran is sometimes called a parish, but is more frequently considered a part of Dysart.	The Rev ^d James Smyth; has care of souls; resides in the Glebe House, in the parish of Dysart and Kilmoluran, and performs the duties himself.	The two former parishes were united episcopally in the year 1787, when the present Incumbent took possession of them; it appears that they were always held united. They were episcopally united to the rectory of Templemish in the year 1804.

I cannot find out their extent, but together they must be very extensive.	Rev ^d Stanch Gaddy; has care of souls; does not reside, nor do I know where he does reside; but by a letter I have lately received from him, he promises to take up his residence in Carrick in a few days. The duties are performed by a resident Curate.	Episcopally united in the year 1805, when the present Incumbent took possession of it; and it appears that it has always been held united.
33.	1. 2.	Union of SHANKRAHAN. Shankrahan ----- Vicarage. Templemish ----- D. These parishes are contiguous. Their extent separately I cannot find out, but together they contain 9,870 acres; a great part of which is mountainous, uncultivated, and uninhabited.	Rev ^d Dr Charles Tuckey; has care of souls; resides in the parish of Tullaghborough, a very few yards outside the parish of Shankrahan and performs the duties himself.	Episcopally united in the year 1774, when the present Incumbent took possession of it; and it appears that it has always been held united.

I believe only episcopally united in the year 1804, when the present Incumbent took possession of it, though it appears that it has been held so united time out of mind.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:—Containing ANSWERS to QUERY 13, Sect. 6th: Queries the 3d, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th; all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 1. } IN my opinion, the Rectory of Ardmore ought to be perpetually united to the Vicarage, and to the Vicarage
Sect. 6. } of Ballymacart; though these may appear extensive, yet a very large part of them is uncultivated and uninhabited mountain.

The Rectory and Vicarage of Derrygarrh ought to be perpetually united; and if a Church and Glebe House were built on this Union, it would be a good arrangement.

I do not approve of the Union which constitutes the Corps of the Archdeaconry, but it cannot be altered unless by changing the Corps altogether, which I should hope to be practicable. I would recommend this to be done, by taking from it the Rectory of Kilmalah, and the Entire Rectory of Kilreath, and adding to it the Vicarage of Ballymacart. This would be a natural Union.

The Entire Rectory of Kilmalah, and the Entire Rectory of Clashmore, ought to be perpetually united: though this may appear extensive, yet it contains very much uncultivated and uninhabited mountain. If Glebe Land was purchased at Clashmore, and a Church and Glebe House built there, I conceive this would be a good arrangement.

The Entire Rectory of Kilgobnet, and the Entire Rectory of Kilreath, ought to be perpetually united, and a Church built at Kilgobnet, and a Glebe House on the Glebe at Kilreath; or if it could be exchanged for Glebe Land near the site of the Church, it would be better.

The Rectory and Vicarage of Tallaghtown ought to be perpetually united.

The Vicarage of John Baptist George ought to be perpetually united to the entire Rectory of Morn, though they do not join, but are divided from each other by a very small neck of the parish of Donaghmore; either of these alone would be of much too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent, being very small parishes. The Crown is the Patron of the Vicarage of John Baptist George. The Bishop is the Patron of the Entire Rectory of Morn.

(Signed)

POWER, *Waterford & Lifmore,*January 7th, 1807.

The Rectory and Vicarage of Dyfart and Kilmaclean ought to be perpetually united.

The Rectory and Vicarage of Modelgo ought to be perpetually united.

The Rectory and Vicarage of Seckinagh ought to be perpetually united.

The Rectory and Vicarage of Kilrofinny ought to be perpetually united.

The Vicarages of Affess and Aglis ought to be perpetually united, and Glebe Land purchased, and a Glebe House built.

The Vicarages of Liffenore and Kilmalebeg ought to be perpetually united; and if a Church and Glebe House were built in the parish of Kilmalebeg, I think this would be a good arrangement.

The Vicarages of Templehill and Kilcockie ought to be perpetually united, and Glebe Land purchased in the parish of Templehill, and a Glebe House built on it.

The Vicarages of White Church, Liscowran, and Coligan, ought to be perpetually united; Glebe Land ought to be purchased in the parish of White Church, near the Church, and a Glebe House built on it. The Duke of Devonshire is the Patron of the Vicarages of White Church and Coligan. The Bishop is the Patron of Liscowran Vicarage.

The Vicarages of Rathronan and Kilronan ought to be perpetually united, though they are separated from each other by the town of Clonmell. They are each of too small value to stand alone. There is a very good Church in Rathronan parish; and if Glebe Land could be purchased near it, and Glebe House built on it, I think these two Vicarages would form a good Union. The Duke of Devonshire is the Patron of both; and his Grace is not the Patron of any of the parishes contiguous to either of them.

The Entire Rectory of Monkland, and the Vicarages of Donhill, Newcastle, and Kilbarrymadden, ought to be perpetually united; a Church ought to be built in the parish of Donhill, and Glebe Land purchased, on which a Glebe House ought to be built. The Corporation of Waterford are the Patrons of Donhill and Newcastle Vicarages. The Crown is the Patron of the Entire Rectory of Monkland; and the Bishop is Patron of the Vicarage of Kilbarrymadden.

The Vicarages of Refnere, Foss, and Ballylabeen, ought to be perpetually united. Glebe Land ought to be purchased near the Church in the parish of Refnere, and a Glebe House built on it.

The Entire Rectory of Talow may stand alone; a Glebe House ought to be built on the Glebe.

The Vicarage of Kilwatermay may stand alone. A Church ought to be built in this parish, and also a Glebe House.

The Vicarages of Stradbally and Clonsa ought to be perpetually united, and Glebe Land ought to be purchased in the parish of Stradbally, and a Glebe House built on it.

The Vicarages of Mochil and Rathcorrick ought to be perpetually united; some additional Glebe Land ought to be purchased in the parish of Mochil, and a Glebe House built on it.

The Entire Rectories of Clonsgan and Fenna ought to be perpetually united to the Vicarage of Glikah. Glebe Land should, if possible, be purchased in the parish of Clonsgan near the Church, and a Glebe House built upon it. The Crown is the Patron of Clonsgan Entire Rectory. The Bishop is Patron of Fenna Entire Rectory; and the Corporation of Waterford are the Patrons of Glikah Vicarage.

The Entire Rectories of Templehill and Graungmore, and the Vicarages of Garraughbreen and Kilcash, ought to be perpetually united. A Church ought to be built in the parish of Garraughbreen, and Glebe Land purchased near it, and a Glebe House built upon it. The Bishop is Patron of the Rectory of Templehill. The Bp. of Cashel, Sec. is Patron and Impropriator of the Entire Rectory of Graungmore, and of the Vicarage of Garraughbreen. The Crown is Patron of the Vicarage of Kilcash.

The Entire Rectory of Kilmurry, and the Vicarages of Carrick and Ardcolton ought to be perpetually united; and a Glebe House ought to be built in the parish of Carrick. The Entire Rectory of Newswellman may very well stand alone. A Church ought to be built in this parish, and Glebe Land purchased near it, and a Glebe House built upon it.

The Vicarages of Kilturban, Kiltalon, and Templestony ought to be perpetually united, and a Church built in the parish of Kiltalon, where a Glebe ought to be purchased, and a Glebe House built. The Crown is the Patron of Kiltalon and Templestony Vicarages. The Earl of Ormond is the Patron of Kilturban Vicarage.

The Vicarage of Tubrid may stand very well alone.

The Rectory Entire of Clonsell and the Vicarage of Kilgrat ought to be perpetually united. Kilgrat would be of too small value to stand alone; and I have already provided for all the other contiguous parishes. John Bagwell, Esq. is the Patron of the entire Rectory of Clonsell, and the Crown is the Patron of the Vicarage of Kilgrat.

The Vicarages of Shearhan and Templestony ought to be united perpetually. Though these parishes may appear very extensive, they are in great part uninhabited and uncultivated mountains. Glebe Land ought to be purchased in the parish of Shearhan, near the Church, and a Glebe House built upon it.

The Vicarage of Cahir may very well stand alone.

The Entire Rectory of Liffonsburgh may very well stand alone. Glebe Land ought (if possible), to be purchased near the Church, and a Glebe House built upon it.

The Union of Ardara, as it now stands, ought to be made perpetual; and a Glebe House ought to be built on the nearest Glebe to the Church.

The Union of Ousagh, as it now stands, ought to be made perpetual, and a Glebe House built on the Glebe.

The Vicarage of Dangareen and the Vicarage of Ringona ought to be perpetually united; and a Glebe House ought to be built on the Glebe in Dangareen.

The Entire Rectory of Liffonagh may very well stand alone; and a Glebe House ought to be built upon the Glebe.

All the other Parishes within this Diocese form the Corps of the Deanery, the Vicars Choral, the Chantry, or of some of the Chapter.

Though I have taken great pains in making the foregoing arrangement of the Parishes within this Diocese; yet it is possible, that, upon review, it may admit of such alteration.

Query III.—I have in the Columns answered this Query with regard to the Livings as they now stand settled; but should such Unions and Distribution of Parishes take place as I have recommended, the following will be of too small value to afford to each Incumbent the means of comfort, and the best mode of improving their condition.

The Union of Affase and Aghit, which I have recommended, would, I apprehend, be of much too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent; but might be very advantageously increased by the purchase of Glebe Lands.

The Union of Templehill and Kilcockle, which I have recommended, would, I apprehend, be of too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent; but might be advantageously increased by the purchase of Glebe Land near the Church of Templehill.

Should the value of the Vicarage of Kilwatermay be too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent (of which I have doubt), it could be increased by the purchase of Glebe Lands.

In the arrangements which I have recommended, there may be other Benefices of too small value to afford comfort to the Incumbent, of which I am not at present informed.

Queries V. VI. VII. and VIII.—For Answers to these, I refer to my General Observations for the Diocese of Waterford.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS :

Containing ANSWERS to QUERIES 1st, Section 6th; and Queries 3d, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th—all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 1. Sect. 6th.—THERE is by Act of Parliament a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or dissolve Parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a District (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Perpetual Curacy; by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been actually divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Query 3d.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings by purchasing Glebes and inappropriate Tythes, out of the produce of the First Fruits and Twentieth Parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by adding the Incumbents of them with money for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this Fund is small, and unequal to the essential augmentation of such Livings.

THERE is also another Fund arising from a charitable bequest of the late Dr. Boulton, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under One hundred Pounds by the year; by adding so much Salary yearly to the Incumbents of such Livings, as will make their annual Income One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

N^o 5.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present the evocation of the Canon Law, in cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by appeals; and there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland. But, if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may then become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

N^o 6.—WE apprehend that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, for the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, and the improvement of Glebes.

N^o 7.—THE Laws now in being are, we apprehend, fully sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidations when duly enforced.

N^o 8.—We are of opinion that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small attention which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for the augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

THE Unions forming the Corps of the Dignities are noticed in the Remarks made on similar Unions in the Diocese of Cashel. It is to be observed, however, that N^{os} 2 & 6, in this Diocese, have only one Parish each care of souls, in addition to the share of the Parish of Ardferret.

The Unions 11, 12, 13, 18, are in the Patronage of the Crown.

The Unions, 7, 8, 9, 10, 14, 15, are in private Patronage, except one denomination in N^o 7.

It has been the custom, both of the Crown and private Patrons, to include all the Parishes in these Unions respectively in one Instrument of Presentation. The Bishops, in accepting these Instruments so drawn, have acted under the impression (well or ill founded) that they could not legally refuse to institute incumbents offering these Instruments; hence it has happened that these Parishes have continued so long united.—N^o 16, is the only Union of large extent in the Patronage of the Bishop.

DIOCESE OF
KILLALOE AND KILFENORA.

KILLALOE.

To give a fair view of the state of the Diocese of KILLALOE, it is necessary to state, that a very large proportion of that Property which was intended as Provision for Clerical Duty, has passed into the hands of Lay Persons, which has so reduced the incomes appropriated now to the Incumbents performing the duty, that a consolidation of several Vicarages has been found indispensably necessary to furnish the means of support.—N^{os} 14. 16. 17. 18. are Rectories in private patronage; the Incumbents have no duties to perform; they are performed by the Vicars endowed.—The Incumbents of the Unions 13. 15. 20. 21. 22. are the Vicars endowed of each of them, and receive a very small income out of each.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Query 1st, Sect. 6.—THERE is, by Act of Parliament a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or disunite Parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a District (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Perpetual Curacy, by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been actually divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Query 3d.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings, by purchasing Glebe Land and Impropriate Tythes out of the produce of the First Fruits and Twentieth Parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by affording the Incumbents of them with money for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this Fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such Livings. There is also another Fund, arising from a charitable bequest of the late Dr. Boulton, Fellow of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under One hundred Pounds by the year, by adding so much salary yearly to the Incumbents, as will make their annual incomes One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort, in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

Number 5.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-Residence; but at present the execution of the Canon Law, in cases of Non-Residence, has been obstructed by Appeals: And there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in a case of Non-Residence, as will supercede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provisions for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland; but, if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may then become advisable to apply to the Legislature so enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

Number 6.—WE apprehend that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebe.

Number 7.—THE Laws now in being are, we apprehend, fully sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidations, when duly enforced.

Number 8.—WE are of opinion, that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alteration which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such Grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and affording the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

JOHN G. Cork & Rofs.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Query I. } BY Law the Chief Governor and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, can Sect 6. } unite or divide Parishes, when it is expedient so to do; and the Archbishops and Bishops are also enabled by Law to form a portion of a large Parish into a perpetual Curacy; which division of Parishes and arrangement has frequently been effected.

Query III.—There are Funds vested in the Board of First Fruits applicable to the augmentation of small Livings, by purchasing Glebes and Tythes; and by giving the Incumbents of them money for the building of Glebe Houses, and increasing their Salary to One hundred Pounds by the year; but I am of opinion that these Funds are too limited, and consequently insufficient to afford the means of comfort to resident Incumbents.

Query V.—Residence may be enforced in Ireland under the Canon Law; but the execution of the Canon Law has been obviated by appeals.—A case is now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty; which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent as may supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence. But, if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it will then, in my opinion, be necessary to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

Query VI.—In my opinion the best mode for disposing such Funds as are now applicable to the purposes of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes, is established by the Law now in being.

Query VII.—The existing Laws are fully competent to prevent improper, perpetual, or Episcopal Unions, and to preserve Churches or Glebe Houses from dilapidation.

Query VIII.—I am of opinion, that, with due execution of the Laws now in force, and with the addition suggested, (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and with such grants as may seem meet to His Majesty and the Legislature, for augmenting the incomes of small Livings, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, the improvement, protection, and support of the established Church in Ireland, will be best effected.

GLEBE HOUSES, In what Parish, — what Glebe Lands, — Whether contiguous; or How far removed from each other, and from the Church, or 5 to all the old Church.	6. CURATES Salaries in Cases of parished Non-Residence of the Incumbents; whether Resident or not.	7. LIVINGS of a Value too small to afford Comfort in the Incumbent.
One Church in repair, at Pharrishay.	A Glebe House at Pharrishay, with 24 acres of glebe, and a small glebe at Cloyne, left for building, at £. 2. per ann.	Curate's Salary is £. 40. He resides in the Glebe House.
One Church in repair, lately built at Lisgoold.	No Glebe House; glebe at Cloyne, 7 acres; at Ballymore-le, is a separate portion, and not far from the old church, 2, at Ballygarrahy and Im- black, 3 rods. None of them contiguous, or near the church of Lisgoold.	Curate's Salary at £. 60. He resides in the adjoining Parish.	None of these Livings taken sepa- rately can afford comfort to an In- cumbent, except per- haps Ballymore-le, which might pro- duce £. 100 per ann. and yet leave enough to support the Chancellorship from the 4 other Parishes. It has also a glebe, and might have a church.
One Church in repair.	A good Glebe House at Cloemell, with 20 acres of glebe, and 3 is Temple Robin, near the old church.	Curate's Salary £. 50. He resides in the Union.	Temple Robin might be separated from Cloemell, and each would provide maintenance for an Incumbent; but the Union being by Act of Council, it is not in the Bishop's power to dissolve it by his own authority.
No Church.	No Glebe House; a small glebe at Cloyne, of 2 rods, and a glebe of 6 acres at Cloemore, not far from the site of the old church.	Rev ^d Martin Armbrong, resides in a neighbouring Parish.	None of these Liv- ings taken separately could maintain an Incumbent, except Cloemore.
One Church in repair, at Middleton.	Glebe House at Middleton; glebes, at Middleton - - - 14 acres. Templemacanilly - 24 D ^r Ballynacarra - - - 5 D ^r Church Town - - - 3 rods. These glebes are not contiguous, but are dif- tant 2 or 3 miles from each other, being all near their churches, except Ballynacarra, which is 2 miles from it.	Curate's Salary £. 75; re- sides in the Parish.	The Union being by Act of Council, it is not in the power of the Bishop alone to dissolve it; and while a charge re- mains, as at present in the House, it is conceived it could not be done without an Act of Parlia- ment; but if it was possible, it would be a benefit to the church to divide this great Union into two Parishes, at some future time.
One Church in repair, at Goetree.	No Glebe House; a small glebe at Cloyne; 6 acres at Goetree.	Curate's Salary £. 50; re- sides in the Union.	Goetree. Defert.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing ANSWERS to QUERY the 1st, Section 6th;—Queries the 3^d, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th 1st—all the other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 1. Sect. 6th.—THERE is by Act of Parliament a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops in the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or disunite Parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a District (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Perpetual Curacy; by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been actually divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Query 3^d.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings by purchasing Glebes and inappropriate Tythes, out of the produce of the First Fruits and Twentieth Parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by adding the Incumbents of them with money for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this Fund is small, and unequal to the essential augmentation of such Livings.—There is also another Fund arising from a bequest of the late Dr. Boulton, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under One hundred Pounds by the year, by adding so much Salary yearly to the incumbents of such Livings, as will make their annual incomes One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

N^o 5.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present the execution of the Canon Law, in cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by appeals; and there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland. But, if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may then become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

N^o 6.—WE apprehend that the Laws already in being establish the mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, for the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebes.

N^o 7.—THE Laws now in being are, we apprehend, fully sufficient to prevent Unions, Perpetual or Episcopial, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dissipation, when duly enforced.

N^o 8.—We are of opinion that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alteration which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for the augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, preservation, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

ANSWERS to such QUERIES as are not noticed in the GENERAL REPORT of the Diocesan of CASHMERE and EMLY.

Query 3.—THE Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment such Livings, by purchasing Glebes and Improprate Tythes out of the produce of the First Fruits and twentieth parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne.

THIS Fund amounts to about £.350. per annum on an average, and is totally inadequate to the attainment of its object.

THERE is another Fund, placed under the management of the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, arising from a Bequest of the late Primate Boulter. Out of this Fund, the Board of First Fruits is enabled, by authority of Parliament, to augment the income of small Benefices on which the Incumbents reside, and perform regularly Divine Service in the Church, to the amount of £.100. per annum. It is yet uncertain whether this Fund will be equal to answer the demand; an enquiry has been set on foot, which will shortly ascertain this point. This Fund may need pecuniary aid, to furnish the means of raising such Livings to the above sum of £.100; a sum certainly not more than sufficient to provide the means of comfort.

Query 5.—No. 2. IT is the opinion of eminent Civilians, that the Canon Law, as hitherto exercised, is sufficient to the purpose of enforcing Residence, notwithstanding the opposition lately given to it. If this should prove to be the case, I am of opinion that no change should take place, being persuaded that those who would resist the present course, would be found equally adverse to any other Regulation for the same purpose.

Query 7.—THE existing Laws are fully adequate to prevent the improper making of parsonal Unions; and as to Episcopal Unions, it appears to me, from a review of the state of the Province of Munster, that instances of improper Episcopal Unions have occurred so seldom of late, that a necessity does not exist of proposing further Legislative Regulations. The change which has taken place in the circumstances of the Country, has, as it should seem, brought about a corresponding change in the conduct of the Bishops. The number of Benefices has greatly increased within a few years by the dissolution of such Unions, and is yearly increasing. It is reasonable to attribute this to a sense of duty in the Bishops, who have abstained from making Episcopal Unions, when the causes, which the Law points out as the proper foundation for making such Unions, have ceased. I think there is reason to expect, that Episcopal Unions will hereafter be much less frequently made than heretofore. If however, any new Regulations should be deemed necessary, I recommend that the consent of a Superior should be made necessary to give validity to an Episcopal Union.

Query 8.—I see no present necessity for recommending any Legislative Regulations with a view to the improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland. A due regard to the regular and steady execution of the Laws, and a conscientious discharge of the trusts reposed, will, as I conceive, promote gradually the discipline of the Church, and secure permanently its interests.

interests. It is not to be denied, that there are circumstances in the Church Establishment, which, in theory, must be viewed as defects; but it is not so certain that these are found, in practice, to be attended with the evil consequences which might be expected from them; and there is much reason to question whether, in attempting to cure these defects, much more serious inconveniences would not be let in. I am of opinion therefore, that it is not now necessary, and that it would not be expedient to alter the Laws affecting the Established Church in Ireland. I entertain no doubt that its discipline and general condition will be found to improve daily under the operation of the existing Laws, and the influence of improving views and habits, manifestly now progressive.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

*Containing ANSWERS to QUERY 1, Sect. 6; Queries 3, 5, 6, 7, 8 &c.—all other Queries being answered in the columns.

Query 1. Sect. 6.—THERE is by Act of Parliament a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or disunite Parishes when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a District (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Perpetual Curacy, by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been actually divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Q. 3.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings by purchasing Glebe Lands and impropriate Tythes out of the produce of the First Fruits and Twentieth Parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by assisting the Incumbents of them with money for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this Fund is found to be unequal to the effectual augmentation of such Livings. There is also another Fund arising from a charitable bequest of the late Doctor Beilby, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under £. 100 per ann. by adding so much Salary yearly to the Incumbents of such Livings as will make their annual Incomes £. 100. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings, but these Funds may be increased by the Bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to make such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

Q. 5.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present the execution of Canon Law, in cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by Appeals; and there is a Case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authorities exercised in that case, will establish such a Precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supercede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland; but if the Decision in that Case should be otherwise, it may become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

Q. 6.—WE apprehend that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, in the improvement of Glebes.

Q. 7.—THE Laws now in being, we apprehend, are sufficient to prevent Unions, Perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches or Glebe Houses from dissipation, when duly enforced.

Q. 8.—WE are of opinion that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alterations which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebe Houses, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing ANSWERS to QUERY 1st, Sect. 6; Queries 3, 5, 6, 7, 8—all other Queries being—answered in the Columns.

Query 1st, Sect. 6.—BY Act of Parliament there is sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or divide Parishes when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a District (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of Perpetual Curacy.

Query 3.—THE Board of First Fruits may augment such Livings by purchasing Glebe Lands and Impropriate Tithes out of the produce of the First Fruits and twentieth parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by adding the incomes of them with money for the erection of Glebe Houses. But this Fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such Livings. There is also another Fund arising from a charitable bequest of the late Doctor Boulton, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament; out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under the value of £.100. per Ann. by adding so much salary yearly to the incumbents of such Livings as will make their yearly income £.100. There is no other mode at present of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident incumbents thereof the means of comfort, in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

Qy. 5.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present the execution of the Canon Law, in case of Non-residence, has been obstructed by appeals; and there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland. But if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

Qy. 6.—WE apprehend that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvement of Glebe.

Qy. 7.—THE Laws now in being are, we apprehend, sufficient to prevent Usurps, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidations, when duly enforced.

Qy. 8.—WE are of opinion, that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alterations which we have already suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Containing ANSWERS to QUERY I, SecO. 6; Queries III. V. VI. VII. & VIII.;—all other
 Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query I. } AS long as the parishes which constitute the Benefices of this Diocese yield such SecO. 6. } scanty profits, and so few comforts as they do at present to the respective Incumbents,
 I do not conceive that any Dissolution of Unions, or other Distribution of Parishes, would be expedient; except perhaps in the single instance of BRACKIN, which is at too great a distance from Ardara-ham, to which it is united, for the Parishioners to attend the Church there, or even for the Incumbent residing in the Parish of Ardara-ham to discharge the occasional Duties at Brackin. These two Parishes are moreover divided by the intervention of the Parish of Kiltarrow, a parochial of the Union of KILMACDONOUGH; and the Parishioners of Brackin attend Divine Service at Gort, where the Church of KILMACDONOUGH stands, and are rated in parochial rates by the Churchwardens of Gort, as of that Parish. I think a portion of Kiltarrow, adjacent to Ardara-ham, should be exchanged for Brackin; or a perpetual Curacy established at Brackin.—The Union of KILMACDONOUGH, comprehending eleven Parishes, is supportable only by the consideration that, multitudinous as it is, one hundred and twenty pounds annually is the extent of yearly support which it supplies to the Incumbents.—LESTRIM is a Parish sufficient as to local extent and population to stand by itself; but under its present circumstances, and under its long-cherished dispositions towards the Church in respect to Parochial Dues, it cannot be separated from Lickanaduff, to which it has been long united, and leave a competent provision for the Incumbent of Lickanaduff and Balinakill, who ought to reside in or near the Town of Portanna; and where indeed the Earl of Clanricarde, the chief landlord, has expressed to me a zealous desire to promote the building of a Glebe House, and promised an accommodation, as far as twelve acres, towards the accomplishment of it.—Many new arrangements of Parishes, highly advantageous and conducive to the Establishment of the Protestant Church, might obviously be made in the Diocese of Clonfert, were the Government to extend to it the same policy under which it has been pleased at different periods to regulate, I believe, every other Diocese in Ireland; namely, to enable the Bishop, by granting him a Compensation, to restore the Quarta Pars (or certain portions of Tythes due out of different Parishes), or rather grant them (all Tythes being originally the property of the Diocesan) to the officiating Parochial Incumbents. Of such a measure, the first result would be to release the Diocesan from the necessity of employing a Tythe-Proctor; or, as it happens in some cases, where the Incumbent wishes to become tenant to the Quarta Pars, from trafficking with one of his Clergy for a property not unimportant to either. In the hands of the Incumbent, these portions would individually increase much in value; their disposition would lay a reasonable foundation for the dissolution of several of the present Unions; new Churches and additional Incumbents might follow; a company would be established for general Residence, and a single Manse House would no longer remain the approbrium of the Union of two not inconsiderable Secs.
 In the instances of three Benefices, viz. Clonfert, Doninaghua, and Kiltarrow, I have the best authority to assert that these three Benefices would afford equal, if not superior Income to six Clergymen; and three additional Churches might be built in situations not seen to from any Church, if the respective entire Tythes of each Parish were relinquished by the Diocesan, and conferred upon the Incumbent. In respect to the Parish of Clonfert, upon any dissolution of the Union,
 I conceive it might be advisable to constitute it part of the Corps of the Deanery of Clonfert, which Deanery is at present without cure of souls, in order to induce the Dean to reside at Clonfert; where, from the ferocity of the famine, and insubordination of the lower orders of people, such an attention to the Refractory of the Ordinary might prove very beneficial to the cause of Religion and Morality. It is obvious that, in many cases, by consolidating the Unions which are now Episcopals, a competent provision might be obtained for the structure of Glebe Houses; but is it not a Question of some difficulty, whether it would be prudent and political to render such extensive Unions perpetual, and preclude the commensurate provision for an increased Population, and an improved state of the Protestant Religion, at a future period, in this Diocese?—Would it be correct to expend upon the erection of a Glebe House, a sum adequate to the perfect profits of the whole of the Union, and afterwards subject a Successor, who might possess only a component part of the Union, to the payment of a full proportion of it?—This, I believe, would be the consequence, as the Law now is, and four successive Incumbents should have paid off the original charge of the House; or, in the case of borrowing the money from the Board of First Fruits, until the interest should have liquidated the principal of the Debt.—If the Bishop should resign the Tythes, how could he be remunerated? This is a Question I will not presume to answer. It is well known, that, in the North of Ireland, in the time of James I., the Bishops were compensated for resigning their Tythes by Grants of Land: in other instances, by the Union of Seats; in others, by the consolidation of Benefices with Secs.

Query III.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings by purchasing Glebe Lands and impropriate Tythes out of the produce of the First Fruits and Twentieth Parts granted by Queen Anne, and by affixing the Incumbents of them with Money for the Erection of Glebe Houses; but the Fund is small, and unequal to the effectual Augmentation of such Livings. There is also another Fund arising from a charitable Bequest of the late Doctor Boulton, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by Act of Parliament; out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under £. 500. per annum, by adding so much Salary yearly to the Incumbents of such Livings as will make their annual Income £. 1000. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the Bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to make such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of Comfort, in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

Query V.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-Residence; but, at present, the execution of Canon Law, in cases of Non-Residence, has been obstructed by Appeals; and there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, will establish such a Precedent in the case of Non-Residence as, in a day or two, will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland. But, if the Decision in that Case should be otherwise, it may become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

Query VI.—WE apprehend that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, to the purpose of building and repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, and improving Glebes.

Query VII.—THE Laws now in being, we apprehend, are sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches or Glebe Houses from dilapidations, when duly enforced. But I cannot but observe, that in some situations, the enforcement of the Law respecting dilapidated Churches, especially where two Churches are in the same Union, is a matter of great difficulty, and scarcely feasible, without incurring consequences subversive of the great objects of Religious Worship.

Query VIII.—WE are of opinion that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small Alterations which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned), and such Grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may, in their Wisdom, make for augmenting the Incomes of Poor Livings, purchasing Glebe Houses, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

CONTAINING

ANSWERS to QUERY 11, Section 6; Queries 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8;—all other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 11, Section 6.—THERE is by Act of Parliament a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several Dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or disunite Parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled, by Act of Parliament, to form a District (part of a large Parish) into a separate Parish, under the title of a Perpetual Curacy, by which means several large Parishes in Ireland have been divided into two or more separate and distinct Parishes.

Query 3d.—THE Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings, by purchasing Glebes and impropriate Tythes out of the produce of the First Fruits and twelfth parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by affixing the Incumbents of them with Money for the erection of Glebe Houses; but this Fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such Livings. There is also another Fund, arising from a charitable bequest of the late Dr. Boulter, Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits, by Act of Parliament, out of which Fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment Livings under One hundred Pounds a year, by adding so much Salary yearly to the Incumbents of such Livings, as will make their annual Income One hundred Pounds. There is at present no other mode of improving such small Livings; but these Funds may be increased by the Bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render such small Livings capable of affording to the resident Incumbents thereof the means of comfort in cases where the Funds already mentioned are insufficient.

V.—IT is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present Canon Law, as hitherto exercised here, is sufficient to remedy the evil of Non-residence; but at present, the execution of the Canon Law in cases of Non-residence, has been obstructed by Appeals; and there is a case now depending before certain Commissioners of Review, appointed by His Majesty, which, if it shall be decided in favour of the Ecclesiastical Authority exercised in that case, will establish such a precedent in the case of Non-residence, as will supersede the necessity of recommending to the Legislature to make any other provision for the purpose of enforcing Residence in Ireland; but, if the decision in that case should be otherwise, it may become advisable to apply to the Legislature to enact some Law for the enforcing the Residence of the Clergy in Ireland.

VI.—WE apprehend, that the Laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe Houses, or the improvements of Glebes.

VII.—THE

VII.—THE Laws now in being are, we apprehend, sufficient to prevent Unions, perpetual or Episcopal, from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe Houses from dilapidations, when duly enforced.

VIII.—WE are of opinion that the due execution of the now existing Laws, with the small alterations which we have suggested (if found necessary on the contingency already mentioned) and such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the Incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and affording the building of Churches and Glebe Houses, will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection, and support of the Established Church in Ireland.
